Prioritizing Maternal Health in Nicaragua

As Lisete and Carla will tell you, being a pregnant woman in Nicaragua has its share of obstacles. When seeking important prenatal care, traveling hours on foot on rural roads in high temperatures is hardly uncommon.

Global Links’ Maternal/Infant Health and Nutrition Project is working to ensure that the availability of high-quality healthcare is one challenge these women will not face. With medical supplies, clinic furnishings, computers, and nutritious food, Global Links and our partners are strengthening the health institutions and maternal homes that serve women in the most rural areas of the country.
